Pahokee girl vies for Miss Florida title

By Ailsa Dewing

If you've ever wondered how a Miss USA gets her start, meet 23-year old Patricia Moran of Pahokee. Pat has been selected as a semi-finalist in the 1990 Miss Florida-USA pageant April 18-20. At the Isla del Sol resort in St. Petersburg, the brown-eyed brunette daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Moran of 123 E. Elm Ave., will match her attributes with some 79 other Florida beauties for the title of Miss Florida and a chance at the Miss USA title later in the spring.

Meanwhile, you could say she holds the title of "Miss Pahokee" since the city is sponsoring her entry in the statewide contest, paying the $296.50 entrance fee as a bargain in advertising.

Standing five feet, nine inches tall, and weighing 134 pounds, Pat is a 1974 graduate of Pahokee High School and a 1979 graduate of the University of South Florida in mass communications.

When it comes to beauty, figure, poise, personality, grooming, intelligence and speaking ability—the points she'll be judged on—Pat has it all together.

Pat says she entered the contest by answering an ad that ran in the Miami Herald in February. "If you're interested, send us a letter, a photo and $12," was the gist of the ad.

Pat did. Two weeks later she received a letter of congratulations telling her she'd been selected from BELLE GLADE—The birthday cards come in bunches, arriving well before March 4, for Molly Smith, an outgoing, religious woman with hair that is now white. She fills up her little front room with them as she fills up her house with four generations of sons and daughters.

Molly Smith, 105 years old, has lost count of the birthday cards, as she has of the more than 100 grands, great-grands, and great-great-grandchildren.

To Mrs. Smith's grands, great-grands, and great-great-grands, she is a walking monument of the Smith's family tree.

Born in Washington, D.C., and moved to Cordella, Ga., with her parents Harry and Mary Jane Williams at a very young age, Mrs. Smith said she holds no memories of Washington, but can see her days in Cordella as "plain as day."

One of 10 children, Mrs. Smith grew up on the farming plantation of Joe Williams, who took the Williams on his farm upon their arrival in Georgia.

Belle Glade asks South Bay for help on 201 Plan

SOUTH BAY—The City Commission referred a request from Belle Glade City Manager Robert Sanders, to work up an inter-local agreement which would allow the completion of the Glades 201 Plan, to City Manager Charles Merz and City Attorney James Gann.

Sanders requested the agreement, which was a demand of United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) representative Mario Machado, saying Belle Glade needs the approval of the plan before it can move ahead with needed sewer system improvements.

Machado said during a meeting held in Belle Glade last December that South Bay would have to agree that once the polishing ponds are no longer considered effective, it would join Belle Glade in a sewage effluent disposal plan, whatever that plan may be, before the 201 Plan could be approved.

A total of 13 alternative plans were offered during research done on the 201 Plan, which would draw up plans for effluent disposal for the entire Glades area.

The alternative considered most cost-effective for the entire area was for all three cities to pipe their effluent to a central deep well located in Belle Glade, for injection to a point almost a mile below the surface of the earth.

The second cost effective alternative plan was for Pahokee to have its own deep well and for Belle Glade and South Bay to share a deep well located in Belle Glade.

The least cost effective plan of the three deep well plans was for each of the three cities to have its own deep well and this was the plan adopted when Pahokee and South Bay refused to consider a common well.

This was the plan finally adopted and submitted to various agencies, finally the EPA office in Atlanta, for approval. After being approved by all the local and state agencies, it was rejected by EPA. Machado said it would be rejected until South Bay agrees to share a common disposal method with Belle Glade.

Machado was told during the meeting that Belle Glade had no objections and Belle Glade officials asked Machado several times if there was any way Belle Glade could go ahead without the inter-local agreement and Machado refused.

In the meantime, Belle Glade took another look at the possibility of spraying effluent over pasture land as an alternative to deep well injection and submitted a proposal addressing effluent spreading to EPA in December, which EPA officials promised to make a quick decision on.

Sanders told the South Bay

Commissioners Tuesday night he had received a telephone message from Atlanta Friday, with a written communication due to follow but not yet received, that the effluent spreading scheme had been rejected.

Sanders noted that Belle Glade isn't in the position enjoyed by South Bay, which recently floated a $4 million bond issue to update its water and sewage systems. He said Belle Glade's sewer system is in dire need of improvements, for which Belle Glade's city commission is counting on funds which would be available under the 201 Plan.

South Bay Attorney James Gann said he wasn't sure whether South Bay could legally sign such an inter-local agreement, considering the fact it had just obligated itself to the 40-year bond.

Gann said he believed South Bay's first step would probably be to contact Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) and get that agency's response. He said a refusal by FmHA might be Belle Glade's answer because that would put two federal agencies in diametrically opposed positions.

Mayor Donal Tanner told Sanders he would have Gann and Merz contact FmHA and would have Merz contact Sanders when FmHA's position is learned. He said the commission would do anything possible, short of putting South Bay into an untenable position, to aid Belle Glade.

Litter could be costly

SOUTH BAY—A new ordinance signed Tuesday by the city commission could make it expensive for anyone caught throwing trash into the streets...or anywhere else besides garbage cans.

Most of the city commission meeting was given over to discussing garbage, trash and sewage but the commissioners failed to take action over a recommendation to raise the monthly rental rate for dumpsters while referring the question of an inter-local agreement with the City of Belle Glade on sewage disposal to City Attorney James Gann.

The litter ordinance has been the goal of Commissioner Ray Sullivan for the past several months now and when it was passed, he proposed the city manager contact the owners of Handy Food Store to warn them it will be enforced.

The new ordinance would levy a fine of $50 for throwing less than five pounds of litter, which would include any type of garbage or trash such as paper, bottles, cans or cigarette butts, on city streets, public property or private property unless prior consent of the owner has been given and unless the litter wouldn't cause a public nuisance.

If the violation concerns more than five pounds of litter, it becomes a criminal violation and a fine as high as $500 could be levied.

The ordinance stipulates that if the litter is thrown from a car, the driver will be held liable.

In another action, or non-action, the commission declined to do anything about a recommendation by City Manager Charles Merz to Mrs. Smith said it was her father's death that brought forward the knowledge of her age. Prior to his death she said she had no idea how old she was.

"As my father laid dying, he asked my mother for Little Man, which was me.

"Little Man, I'm about to leave you now, and I want you to promise me to keep up with your age.

"It's fall now, and I want you to ask what month it is, and when someone tells you its March, ask what day it is and if they say March 4, that's your birthday.

"Little man you're eight now, and next March you will be nine," Mrs. Smith said.

"That was 96 years ago and ever since I have kept up with my age," she said.

Although there is no documented proof exactly when Mrs. Smith was born, Mrs. Smith grandson, Alfonso Royals, said she stands fast by the idea she is 105.

Shortly after her father's death Mrs. Smith said she took a more active role in the raising of her sisters and

This week's Backtalk started out on an optimistic note: let's talk to some children about what the think Easter means.

A telephone call to William Greer at the Wee Care Day Center, produced an enthusiastic response and yesterday morning we met with seven little tykes to talk about their expectations and explanations about Easter.

The children had been chosen as being among those who are extraordinarily chatty and willing to speak up (whether spoken for or not).

Anybody who knows anything about children can guess what happened: most of the children had sudden attacks of bashfulness.

Maybe some didn't think the questions merited that much concentration. Others possibly didn't know just what to expect. And one little miss retreated into coy whispers (much to the amazement of staff members: "She talks all the time!").

Four-year-old Latino Harmon was the first to venture an opinion. "Easter, Rabbit comes to the school and gives me some eggs."

That sounded good to Tiffany Campbell, also 4, who expressed much the same opinion. "Bunny Rabbit is coming to school and bring Easter eggs."

Colantha Wilson, 4, moved the scene of the action to her home. "Easter, Bunny comes with a basket to the door. He's going to knock and everybody will wail up and hunt Easter eggs around the house."

Orlando Woodard, 4, told us that when Easter comes the Easter Bunny buys eggs and candy. "We go to church and then the Easter Bunny comes." Any further questions to Orlando he felt could be answered in one word, "Eggs."

"HEY, HOW WAS I TO KNOW IT WAS A STING OPERATION?"

The forgotten Ninth

A story covered Sunday by CBS 60 Minutes' Mike Wallace was a classic example of growing mentality in the United States that recognizes rights guaranteed citizens in the Constitution without recognizing the rights guaranteed under the forgotten amendment.

The case in point concerned a man committed to a maximum security mental institution last year in New York because the judge who committed him, and others in the courtroom, were convinced that if he were freed, he would murder his former wife.

The judge and the assistant states attorney involved in the case were so convinced of the potential murder that they both wrote letters to the institution warning the psychiatrists who eventually were treating the patient.

After being transferred to a minimum security institution near his former home, the man escaped, was recaptured and sent back to the maximum security institution, was granted a furlough for a day, left the institution with permission and returned to his wife's home and murdered her.

The clincher came when Wallace remarked to one of the doctors that it appeared the authorities were more concerned with the rights of the patient than they were for the rights of the potential victim.

"Well," came the reply, "he does have rights." No concession that the murdered woman also had rights.

Anyone who's read a newspaper or watched a newscast on television any time during the 1960s or '70s has to know this isn't an isolated incident. It's just symptomatic of a spreading malaise wherein rights under the First through the Eighth Amendments (excluding the Second), along with the 13th, 14th and 15th Amendments, are considered all but sacrosanct.

Everybody has apparently forgotten about the Ninth Amendment. "The enumeration in the Constitution of certain rights shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people."

It gets back to the old legal saw that, "Your freedom ends where my nose begins."

The man in question certainly had rights, no question about that but if the Ninth Amendment doesn't guarantee his wife to at least the right to life, it has no meaning.

P.S....

Then there was the woman, arrested and charged with beating her two-year old child to death, who was released so she could go home and take care of her two-week infant. She took such good care of it that it too, is now dead.

One can only hope there are no more children at home the judge will release her to take care of as well as she has the first two.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Sir:

I do wish some people would stop blaming the Royal Palm trees on Bacon Point Road for car accidents that have caused serious injury and, in some cases, death.

According to accident reports, Mrs. Olden's accident happened because she was passing in a No Passing zone. In the accident that resulted in the death of Lori Bonnell, the driver was doing 80 m.p.h. in a 45 m.p.h. zone.

I am sincerely sorry about the death of the young girl, but how can anyone blame these accidents on those beautiful Royal Palms, when they are caused by the carelessness of the driver.

Sincerely,
s/Margaret Kistner

Dear Sir:

In reply to Bonnie Olden's letter in the March 27th issue, in regards to destroying the palm trees along Bacon Point Road, I will answer with just one question.

Why blame the palms on human error?

Dear Sir:

The 1980 Census is here. It is a time for the Hispanic American to be counted. During the last decade, this segment of the population has become more vocal, but continues to meet setbacks when Congress attempts to provide assistance because the exact number of affected persons is unknown.

It is time to change this situation. With the issuance of Spanish language questionnaires and Spanish speaking census takers, the Census Bureau is attempting to count every resident. This year's survey for the first time asks a Spanish origin question of every household in the nation.

The Hispanic community must not be shortchanged because of incomplete or inaccurate tabulations. More than 9 million persons of Spanish descent or origin were counted in the 1970 Census; this year's figure is expected to be 13

CRACKER CRUMBS

BY DEAN JONES

Boy, talk about who's the biggest fool at last!

I had it all figured out to be the best April Fool's joke I'd pulled since introducing Bluff to Lydia a few years ago, and anytime you can introduce your boss to a mythical lovely so he receives candy, flowers and a mushy card on Valentine's Day...and have the card sent to his wife by "mistake," that's a good one.

Knowing the Census '80 forms were supposed to be returned on April Fool's Day, and that's when this is being written, I was going to have a little fun with it.

Fun like answering the question of "Race as the 220, 440 and 120 high hurdles, or answering "No" to the question of Sex.

Let's face it, there are a heck of a lot of questions on that form that go considerably further than a counting of the population requires...and that's the short form.

I mean, what's it to ya, Jack, whether I'm Puerto Rican, Heinz 57 or a purple Finnish fisherman? You write a book?

And when they shifted into high gear with the long form one of every six families are supposed to fill out, they really start breaking some nosey records.

I just wanted to see the expression on their face, though, when I told 'em there were five service elevators and 13 passenger elevators in the mobile home where I live.

And why in the Billy Blue Blazes would it be of concern to anyone but me whether my water well had been dug or drilled and how deep that relate to the need of counting the population?

Whose business is it of anyone but me that I have a $750,000 mortgage on the apartment I'm renting?

It's enough to make me follow through on a threat to enter Nibs as one of the other person's living with me and under her race, in the space set aside for "Other," write in "Calico Cat".

But they want a really full count. I'll have to name all my mice and roaches.

None of that is going to become reality, however, not unless somebody gets on the ball.

Here it is April 1, the day an estimated 90 per cent of the people in the United States are expected to return their census forms in that postage paid mail and I haven't seen mine yet.

That estimate of 90 percent was made by the regional head of the census at a seminar in West Palm Beach. I said at the time they'd be darn lucky to get 90 percent delivered and I remember Tom Altman figuring more along the line of 50 percent.

Sorry, Tom, we were both wrong if a quick poll in this office means anything.

Out of six people who live and work here, two said they've received their forms. One out of three may not be bad but it sure doesn't average 90 per cent or even 50 per cent, and that's delivered, not returned.

Well,uzzi, maybe they're taking their good time in delivering them. I checked with the local Post Office and was very informed that all the census forms had been delivered from West Palm Beach in Friday's mail and had been delivered or returned for lack of a complete address by Saturday.

As the old children's rhyme goes, looks like I'm the April Fool last, along with the whole community because if this office is an indication, Belle Glade's gonna come out of the census with an official of about 5,000. Maybe then, we'd qualify for some of that Farmers Home Administration money they're so anxious to get rid of.

Whipsaw one bureaucracy against another one for the community's benefit, so to speak. Then who's the April Fool?

confidentiality of the private census data response is never published in any form that will disclose personal information about an individual. By law, this information cannot be given to any other Federal agencies. Not the Immigration and Naturalization Service, the FBI, or any local agencies such as the Social Services or police departments. Ha llegado el Censo de 1980. Es la hora para los hispanoamericanos ser contados. Durante la década pasada, este segmento de la población se ha puesto más expresivo, pero sigue tener reveses cuando el Congreso trata de proveer ayuda, porque no se sabe el número exacto de personas afectadas.

Y es la hora para cambiar esta situación. Con la emisión de los cuestionarios en español y empadronadores que hablen español, el Departamento del Censo está atentando de contar cada residente. Por la primera vez, el estudio de este año hace una pregunta de origen español a cada domicilio en el país.

No podemos permitir que la comunidad hispana reciba menos que una representación justa por tabulaciones incompletas o inacuradas. Más de nueve millones de personas de descendencia española u origen fueron contados en el censo de 1970. Se espera que el total de este año será trece millones.

Que Usted se asegure que nunca se publica la confidencialidad de la respuesta de dato del censo privado en cualquier forma que revelará los datos personales de un individuo. Por la ley, no se permite dar esta información a ningunas otras agencias Federales — NO al Servicio de Inmigración y Naturalización, el F.B.I., o a las agencias locales como los Servicios Sociales o departamentos de la policía. En efecto, el formulario de 1980 ni siquiera preguntará si un respondedor es un extranjero registrado.

Quiero tomar esta oportunidad para pedir que la lectoría española conteste el formulario del censo y que lo devuelva cuanto antes, y así garantizando una cuenta acurada y una representación más realista.

Sinceramente,

FOR 60 YEARS INDEPENDENT LIFE HAS SAID, "NO EXCUSES."

This year is the 60th anniversary of Independent Life. During those years we've learned that people will invent any excuse to keep from talking to a life insurance agent.

But excuses could leave your family with nothing. And there's no excuse for that.

Your family should have enough insurance to support them in the lifestyle they now enjoy. Our Total Way of Life insurance programming was designed to make that possible. And in the hands of a highly professional Independent Life agent, Total Way of Life will give your family what they need — and put your mind at ease.

As you can tell from our Statement of Condition, a growing number of people are making no excuses to their Independent Life agents. Take a tip from them. When your Independent Life agent calls... talk to him.

raise the monthly rental rates of dumpsters from $37.50 to $50.

Merz told commissioners the $37.50 rate isn't enough to cover what South Florida Sanitation, Inc. is charging the city. He said the city has had to spend some $3,300 out of the general fund since the first of the fiscal year on Oct. 1, 1979.

Mayor Don Tanner said he would entertain a motion from one of the other commissioners to raise the rates. When there was no response, he pointed out the alternative would be to continue drawing money from the general fund to make up the difference.

City Clerk Virginia Walker pointed out that South Florida Sanitation is charging new customers $60 a month while the old customers continue paying $37.50 a month.

Mrs. Walker later said part of the problem is that while the city is paying South Florida for 52 dumpsters, the city is receiving payment for only 44 dumpsters.

When there was still no motion, Mayor Tanner said he would postpone the problem until the

Commissioner Vernita Cox said she didn't feel residential garbage customers were receiving full service for the money they pay. She said the problem is that sanitation service doesn't use a specific schedule and the result is that residents don't know when to put out their garbage.

"This isn't a one-time thing," she said. "It happens all the time."

Tanner told the commissioners that if they weren't willing to raise the rates to cover the costs, then considering the city's financial condition, they should start thinking in terms of the city taking over garbage collection.

a field of 2,000 entrants as one of 80 semi-finalists in the Miss Florida USA pageant.

At the time, Miss Moran was working as a projectionist for TV Channel 6 in Miami. "I thought it would be a good experience," says Pat. "It will be a chance to meet people and it could be a benefit in getting jobs." Miss Moran aspires to work before the television cameras rather than behind the scenes.

Between now and April 18, the pageant's sponsor, American Pageants, Inc., of Silver Spring, Md., recommend that contestant work on a tan.

"It pays to have a good tan," the promoters point out "because every other pageant is envious of Florida girls because of the weather." On the other hand, they warn contestants not to get "super dark."

Pat is more concerned about getting sunburned and peeling.

"Watch your weight, tone up now, and make certain your clothes fit," is another admonition. Her weight is no problem to her, Pat says, but she plans to play a lot of tennis to get in shape.

Other no-no's, dictated by the contest promoters include: no mothers backstage, no pantyhose to be worn with bathing suits, no full wigs, and no stuffing swimsuits.

The three-day competition includes being judged in a gown, in a bathing suit, and in a disco dress, as well as a personality interview with the judges.

Fifteen contestants will make it to the runway for the grand finale and the chance to succeed 20-year-old Penny Sheridan of Merritt Island, the reigning Miss Florida.

The winner will represent Florida in the 28th annual USA Pageant to be staged at the Mississippi Gulf Coast Coliseum and televised nationally.

March of Dimes Super Walk set

BELLE GLADE—The Eighth Annual March of Dimes Glades Super Walk will be held later in the year than usual but newly appointed Glades Coordinator Roy Rausch said that with the help of the Belle Glade Lions Club and a few friends, it will be held on May 10.

The Super Walk has customarily been held in early March but this year's version is somewhat later because several key personnel have moved from the area, including James and Jenny Huggins who coordinated the Glades effort for five years, and Bo Stein, who was the county director for three years.

County March of Dimes Chairman Ed Perry visited the Glades area in February, saying he had only been informed shortly before that there was no one to coordinate the walk in the Glades and that no one had initiated any action.

After talking over the problem with a number of people, Perry spoke to the Belle Glade Lions Club, which eventually offered to adopt the Super Walk as a club project. Rausch volunteered to chair the effort and was named coordinator.

Rausch held a meeting with several volunteer workers Saturday at his office to discuss plans and it wasn't until then some of the plans started taking on form shape.

Rausch said he wanted to avoid holding the walk in April because it would be competing with the Second Black Gold Jubilee.

"I figured that by the second week in May," he said, "the Jubilee would be over but it would still be early enough people wouldn't be gone for the summer but it wouldn't be too hot yet."

Black Gold planning is into final stages

BELLE GLADE—With two weeks remaining before the first Black Gold Jubilee events become reality, plans were being firming up Friday at the Jubilee Committee meeting, with last minute details being worked out on most of the festival.

The only item resembling new business was a decision that the committee should sponsor a City of Belle Glade float, with City Commissioner Randy Davidson chairing a committee to build it.

The committee had decided a week earlier to buy a kit to build a float to be sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce but the price of the kits had risen from the estimated $200 to a catalog price of $800 and Chamber President Rupert Mock, Jr., said the final price would probably be $1,000, one third of the committee's entire budget.

After some discussion, the committee agreed to sponsor its own float, to be built from scratch by a sub-committee headed by Davidson, with a cap of $300.

Although the dates set for the Black Gold Jubilee are April 18-20, a prelude will take place beginning the afternoon of Friday, April 11 and running through Sunday, April 13, featuring the softball, tennis and golf tournaments.

The softball tournament will be the first action event of the Jubilee, with the first games in the men's division scheduled to take place April 11 at Lakeshore Park.

The tournament is being sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of the Glades and Dennis Milliron said registration for entrants will be closed out at 16 teams in each of the two divisions (men and women) or 5 p.m. Friday, April 4, whichever comes first.

Milliron said the men will play at Lakeshore Park and the women will play at Jayces Park. Entry fees are pegged at $75 per team this year and the officiating will be done by American Softball Association certified umpires.

Milliron said the schedules for the two divisions will be drawn up at 5 p.m. Monday, April 7, in the South Bay branch of the Bank of Belle Glade. Teams are invited to send representatives.

The tennis tournament will be held April 11-12 at Lyons Park and City Manager Robert Sanders said the north courts will be closed off Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week to get the courts ready. Entry fees are $5 per person, per event.

The Black Gold Jubilee golf tournament will get underway with a shotgun start at 1 p.m. Sunday, April 13, at the Belle Glade Golf Course. Golf Pro John Wright said he is taking entries now and reminded the committee last year's Black Gold tournament was the largest tournament since he's been in Belle Glade.

Wright said the entry fee is $15 and includes the price of a Black Gold Jubilee T-shirt.

One last-minute decision had to be made Friday concerning the Marathon minus-one-half to be run at 7 a.m. Saturday, April 19. Sanders told the committee he had been asked by one local lady if the women could run a shorter course than the 13 miles scheduled, which will begin at McDonald Park and continue south on SR827A and back.

The committee decided, however, that the course for the women would remain the same as for the men, although they wouldn't be competing with the men. City Recreation Director Johnny Rutledge said he could pick up anybody who couldn't finish the race.

Brett McCormick, chairman of the water ski show which will take place at 5 p.m. Sunday, April 20, said the interest in the show has spun off a new club in the area. He said Sunshine Water Sports, Limited, had 26 members as of Friday and expects the membership to grow to 34 before the Jubilee takes place.

McCormick said the water skiers have planned 17 different acts which should cover about 45 minutes to an hour and he said he is sure they will provide a good show.

Other activities were moving onward in their planning, with only last minute wrinkles to be ironed out before the Jubilee takes place.

Gunter: justify rates

TALLAHASSEE—State Insurance Commissioner Bill Gunter has given Florida's tenth largest automobile insurance company 60 days to justify a 13.8 percent rate hike or face rejection.

It failed to include data substantiating territorial rate changes.

The Liberty Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Boston, Mass., which is currently resisting a department order to return excess profits earned from 1976 through 1978, put its rate increase into effect Feb. 14 for new business and March 20 for renewals.

Liberty insures approximately 68,000 vehicles in Florida and earned $19.8 million in premiums last year. The parent company, Liberty Mutual Insurance Companies, was ordered Oct. 5 to return $3,838,960 in excess profits to its Florida policyholders.

The company chose to challenge Gunter's order and the action is currently awaiting a decision in Circuit Court.

Gunter's notice to the company alleges:

—The filing failed to reflect expense flattening by territory as required by Department rule.

—It used only the averages of the latest two accident half-years in setting loss development factors resulting in unreasonably high loss development.

—The filing overestimated trending factors for bodily injury and property damage coverages.

Mrs. Smith

brothers, and working in the fields.

When questioned about her youthful age, and the need to work and not attend school, Mrs. Smith said she only attended school one day in her life.

"I'd gotten in trouble with the teacher, and other children would make fun of the trouble I was in. I was scared to go back to school, so I lied to my mother for a while about going to school. I would walk so far from home and stay there until school was out and then return home," she said.

But Mrs. Smith said that practice of going to school when in fact she was not going to school, ended when one of her brothers died as a result of an accident in the saw mill.

"I lost my father and brother to saw mills. Times got harder for my family, and I knew I had to begin working every day in Mr. Williams' fields," she said.

Although she kept an account of her age with each passing year, Mrs. Smith said she had no idea what year each passing year was, and had no idea of all the important inventions that were being patented. Alexander Graham Bell's telephone, the first low-voltage fluorescent lamp, the automobile or the television.

Mrs. Smith said she doesn't remember news reports about World War I or II, and has no idea of what slavery was all about, although she remembers a few stories her mother told her about slavery.

"I didn't have time for such things. I was busy working my way up as crew leader on Mr. Williams' farm."

"I held that position for 14 years. Many men tried to take the position but I held on to it."

"I would wear my guns, and when a man would give me trouble I simply 'chun'd' him across the field," she said.

"Honey I could plow like a man, I picked cotton, corn and peanuts, and could put a bale of cotton across my back as good as any man."

"I have worked hard in my day, but have no regrets, I just thank the Lord for sparing my life," she said.

"Honey you know we only made 40 cents a week, along with a sack of flour, potatoes, and pork back."

She added she sometimes got a little more because she was the crew leader and Mr. Williams liked her.

Mrs. Smith said it was Mr. Williams who gave her, her first ride in an automobile.

"Honey I saw this thing coming up to the farmhouse one day, and out jumped Mr. Williams."

"An old Ford of some sort, he told me."

"Later on, I don't remember, Mr. Williams gave me and some of the other workers a ride in his car," she said.

As time passed on, Mrs. Smith said she was "getting older and grown, and had to leave her mother's house."

Shortly thereafter she said she met her first husband, Jim Jackson.

From that union, two children were born. After Jackson's death, Mrs. Smith married George Smith.

In 1933, she said she left Cordeila for Belle Glade with one of her daughters.

Her first job in Florida, Mrs. Smith said, was in beans. "They paid 20 cents a hamper, but I wasn't a good picker."

"I had never picked beans before, but honey I did alright though. I made more money than I did in Georgia," she said.

As time passed on, Mrs. Smith said her family began to follow the crops during the fifties to northern cities.

The city she remembers most is Canton, Ohio, although she doesn't know why.

She said she continued to work harder, as there were six children to feed, three girls and three boys.

The girls, Elorna Kears, Mamie Campbell, and Clara Royals all are residents of Belle Glade, with one son living in Miami and two in Georgia.

Although at time, Mrs. Smith can't remember exactly when she stopped working.

Grandson, Alfonso Royals, said that on any given day she can tell you things about her life, the family never knew before.

A proud lady with over flowing words about her four generations of off-springs, Mrs. Smith said none of her sisters and brother learned to read, including herself, although she learned to count by counting her fingers and toes.

"I taught my children the value of learning to read and write, and they taught their children the value of an education," she said.

Today there is a list of off-spring who have received a college education.

Although she celebrated her 105th birthday with friends on March 25, at the Senior Citizens Center, who celebrated their 87 and 70 birthday, she said she felt as young as Mr. Boyd Phillips and Mrs. Willie Mae Palmer.

She said she enjoyed the party, and looks forward to coming to the new center for Senior citizens.

"I try not to miss a day," she said.

She said she enjoys talking to the ladies and riding in the van. Mrs. Smith said she never thought she would make it to 105.

"I attend the New Bethel Baptist Church every Sunday, and I have never been in trouble, that is only once, but not with the law, only with a neighbor, I guess it's the Lord's will I live. I thank Him," she said.

The next moment Mrs. Smith's face was filled with emotions, as the realization; someone, something had indeed been good to her.

Planning a trip? Use Glades Travel Service

It costs no more. In 1977 Richard Allred purchased the Vagabond Travel Agency, changed its name to Glades Travel Service and his business has been growing ever since. Allred would like everyone to realize that many people are under the misconception that by the use of a travel agency they will be spending more money than by going directly to the airline ticket agent! On the contrary - people will save time and energy by calling on us, and the cost is the same. At the present time, Mr. Allred is handling the plans for an 85-day trip around the world for one of his clients (try doing this the other way!!). As the summer grows nearer, many people in the area are planning vacation trips to Hawaii, Europe - and Mr. Allred is even planning to go on a trip to the Orient.

events taking place in the international arena are both mind-boggling and heart rending.

"It certainly would behoove us to sit up and take notes," he said, "re-searching the facts that are set before us. We are bordering on the era of universal change that will shake our society and way of life to the core."

mark of the beast, the monetary system, one-world government, shortages and the return of the Jews to Israel, along with current events relating to Russia, etc."

This is a community-wide project open to the public. Rev. Feld is utilizing both adults and young people to attend. There is a one-time $1 club fee. For additional information, call the Belle Glade Bible Study Class at 996-8535.

Solid waste disposal contract is approved

BELLE GLADE—A solid waste disposal agreement between the city and the Palm Beach County Waste Authority that will result in garbage and trash being hauled from the Glades to the coast was approved Monday in a special meeting, along with a lease agreement that will help make the transfer station a reality.

The city commission has been discussing the lease agreement and the inter-local agreement with the Solid Waste Authority since January and City Attorney John Baker managed to work out the final wording during a meeting between himself, city officials and authority officials.

The two agreements give the Authority the right to lease 15 acres of land on which will be placed the transfer station; basically a paved ramp where garbage trucks will dump garbage which will be shoved off into waiting tractor-trailers which will haul the refuse to the West Palm Beach area to be deposited in sanitary landfills.

Should a more permanent disposal facility such as an incinerator or a resource recovery disposal facility be developed which meets the approval of all parties concerned, the land would be available for the erection of that facility.

In two other actions, the commission agreed to the wording and authorized the advertisement for bids of a mosquito control agreement and awarded a bid in the amount of $86,374 to Clyde R. Dunn, Inc. of West Palm Beach to erect the lighting at Airport Park. City Manager Robert Sanders said Dunn was the only bidder and had also put up the lighting at the last park to be completed in the Glades.

Sanders also said the city has spent $186,000 in total on the construction of Airport Park and is well under the $233,000 estimated cost.

City Trashathon is on for April 12

BELLE GLADE—The city's first trashathon has been scheduled for 1 to 5 p.m. Saturday, April 12 and teenagers from area schools will be seeking sponsors during the coming week to pay for trash being picked up from the center of town.

The Trashathon is being sponsored by the Junior Human Relations Council. The Council was formed by the Senior Human Relations Council that was formed in the wake of city-wide violence on Halloween.

Members of the JHRC has given presentations at the local junior and senior schools, encouraging students to go into the community next week and seek sponsors for each bag of garbage they collect.

The Trashathon will work something like a walkathon. Sponsors will pledge so much money per bag of trash that participants can collect. Local businesses will be asked to donate money or supplies such as trash bags or refreshments.

The proceeds will be used to finance a Trash Bash slated to be held from 4 to 8:30 p.m. Saturday, April 19 as part of the Black Gold Jubilee activities scheduled that afternoon at McDonald Park.

The area to be cleaned is bordered on the east by South Main Street, on the north by West Avenue A, on the west by Southwest Tenth Street and on the south by Southwest Avenue E.

Teams from the various schools will be assigned specific areas to be cleaned and they will compete for first, second and third place trophies. Individual awards will also be given to those collecting the most trash.

A ticket for a free hot dog at the Trash Bash will be given to anyone who collects four bags of trash. The city has agreed to pick up trash at several collection sites within the clean-up area.

The Trash Bash will consist of a disco/rock band and refreshments in McDonald Park at the same time as the Arts and Craft Show being sponsored by the Junior Women's Club of Belle Glade as part of the Black Gold Jubilee activities.

The JHRC consists of junior and high school students from Lake Shore Middle School, Glades Central, Christian Day and Glades Day High Schools.

Members are Sherry Nelms, Lucette Knight, Kimberly Abrams, Leydi Navarro, Marie Escobar, Kent Davis, Roly Ramos, Carol Austin, Terri Sotolongo, Mitch Strickland, Nickie Barnes and Brian Lohmann.

The Rev. David Evans and Dan Byrthwood are sponsors of the organization.

"Nickname" was originally the name, which meant an "added name."

EMPHASIS

TO THE POINT ABOUT TURKEY POINT

What do the two nuclear power plants at Turkey Point mean to you as our customers? They mean more money stays in your pocket. During 1979, TP nuclear alone generated about 15% of all the electricity used by our customers (together with St. Lucie nuclear #1 the total was 26%).

saving 448 million gallons of expensive oil and saving FPL customers over $166 million in lower fuel costs. Yes, all this in just one year.

Altogether, savings for our customers have exceeded $895.7 million since the first Turkey Point nuclear plant began operating in 1972. This is about three-and-a-half times what it cost to build the plants!

HUMPTY-DUMPTY SAID...

"When I use a word,

It means just what I choose it to mean—neither more nor less."

It brings to mind the use of "public interest." Just who is the "public interest?" "public interest" groups?

Endless delays in bringing new sources of energy on line because of litigation brought about by "public interest" lobbies certainly doesn't represent the broad public interest of either America or Florida. They represent a very selective special interest. And while they have every right to such advocacy, they have not the slightest right to the "public interest" label!

"Public interest" my eye! These groups should be labeled as to what they are—anti-growth, anti-business, anti-energy. That's a small, very special interest. A long way removed from the goals and ideals of the majority of us.

MOVE OVER...WE'VE GOT COMPANY COMING

By the year 2000, our labor force—already born—will be more than one-and-a-third times the present one. If we are unable to provide a sufficient number of productive jobs within an expanding economy for this enlarged labor force, our social fabric could be torn apart.

As a nation, we would be unable to meet our domestic needs, and would clearly not be in a position to exercise international leadership.

It remains obvious that America needs an energy policy that focuses on energy production. A policy that coordinates regulatory actions and measures them by cost/benefit standards. Can this be accomplished? It can! By your actions. This is a national election year and you can make your voice heard!

Raiders sweep track meet

BELLE GLADE—The Glades Central girls track team swept 1-2-3 in four events and won three relay events as well as another individual event to dominate a quadrangle track meet at Jupiter High School last week.

The Lady Raiders garnered a total of 130 1/2 points, according to Coach Jay Seider, almost three times the total captured by the number two team. In a distant second place was Fort Pierce Westwood with 46 1/4 points, followed by North Shore with 41 points and Jupiter with 37.

Glades Central girls swept the shotput, the discus, the long jump and the 330 yard low hurdles as well as winning the 220 yard dash, the 440 yard relay, the mile medley and the mile relay.

In the shotput, Sheila Nix was first with a distance of 39'10 1/4", followed by Dianne Bussie with 33'9 1/4", Brenda Burton with 32'2 1/4" and Gloria Steart with 31'8 1/4".

Miss Nix also won the discus throw with a distance of 99'11", followed by Sheila Ashley with 94'9", Gloria Stewart with 92'8" and Dianne Bussie with 85'8".

The Raiders swept the long jump with Carmen Crawford jumping 17'8", Barbara Bostick going for 16'8" and Sheila Ashley leaping 16'7".

In the 330 hurdles, Sophie Dukas won with a time of 51.6 seconds, followed by Carla Redwood with 52.3 seconds, Rosalind Green with 53.0 seconds and Dianne Bussie with 55.0 seconds.

Carmen Crawford won the 220 yard dash in 26.5 seconds and Barbara Bostick was third with a time of 26.8 seconds.

The mile relay team finished first with a time of 4:17. The team members are Sophie Dukas, Sheila Ashley, Carla Redwood and Cynthia Harrell.

The mile medley team won a first when Carla Redwood, Cynthia Harrell, Marla Redwood and Sherry Washington finished in 4:31.

The 440 yard relay team won first place when Barbara Bostick, Tanya Wilkerson, Sheila Ashley and Carmen Crawford finished in 50.5 seconds.

In the 110 yard low hurdles, Sophie Dukas finished second in 18.3 seconds while Dianne Bussie finished third in 13.5 seconds and Linda Jackson was fourth in 19.0 seconds.

Carmen Crawford finished second in the 100 yard dash by running the distance in 11.2 seconds. Barbara Bostick was third in 11.6 seconds and Linda Jackson was fifth with a time of 12.0 seconds.

In the two mile run, Sherry Washington finished second in 13:10 and Letina Frazier was fourth with a time of 15:15.

Thelma Allen finished third in the 880 yard run with a time of 2:47 while Brenda Sneed was fourth with a time of 2:47.1 and Sherry Washington was fifth with a time of 2:57.

Letina Frazier was third in the mile run with a time of 6:09, a new school record, and Josephine Carey was fourth with a time of 6:10.

Cynthia Harrell was third in the high jump with a leap of 4'6" and Gloria Stewart was fifth with a jump of 4'4".

Coach Seider said the girls will compete today in the Clewiston Invitational.

Growers protest

GAINESVILLE—Vowing "not to roll over and play dead," a group of Florida winter vegetable growers plan to change their strategy as a result of a decision by the U.S. Department of Commerce.

"There was no 'dumping' of certain fresh winter vegetables from Mexico," the acting assistant secretary for trade administration, Stanley J. Marcus, said. According to Marcus, the Mexican cucumbers, eggplant, peppers, squash and tomatoes are not sold, and not likely to be sold, in the United States at less than their "fair value," a marketing practice known as dumping.

"We are not surprised at the decision," said Luis Rodriguez, a leader of the three Florida growers groups which first filed suit in 1978.

The original complaint was voluntarily withdrawn in July 1979 in the hope that the U.S. and Mexico would negotiate a settlement. The complaint was refilled with the Treasury in October 1979.

In the period between the withdrawal and negative preliminary decision by the Treasury last fall, there is some evidence to show that the department developed a new method for gathering facts in dumping cases which would weigh against Florida growers," Scottie Butler, executive director of Florida Farm Bureau Federation, said.

It was as if they went this extra mile to find a new, unproven way of doing what they wanted to prove in the first place, which was not to hold against the Mexican growers," he added.

"Fair value" as defined in the decision was measured by comparing the prices at which similar vegetables from Mexico were sold in Canada and the U.S. from Nov. 1, 1977 to April 31, 1978. Unlike previous dumping cases, Mexico was not used as a basis for comparison.

Marcus found overall prices in the United States and Canada were "essentially similar."

A recent editorial in the New York Times reported that the Department of Commerce found for the Florida growers this month and that higher level officials were attempting to change the decision in fear of reprisal from the Mexican government, Rodriguez said. The one-week delay in the decision, which was, by statute, due March 15, shows the decision to be a political one, he said.

"I now know that when President Jimmy Carter pointed out life is not really fair, he meant 'my administration is not fair and don't expect it to be,'" Rodriguez added.

U.S. Senator Dick Stone (D-Fla.) called for talks between U.S. and Mexico to hammer out an agreement fair to American consumers. "There is no reason why such an agreement can't benefit the growers here and in Mexico as well," he said.

In 1979, approximately $200 million worth of fresh winter vegetables from Mexico were sold in the U.S. The vegetables, one-half the fresh winter vegetables sold in the U.S. were grown without pesticide restrictions in Mexico.

The Southwest Florida Winter Vegetable Growers Association, Palm Beach-Broward Farmers Committee for Legislative Action, Inc., and the South Florida Tomato and Vegetable Growers, Inc., have criticized the Carter administration's lack of protection for domestic industry in light of restrictions placed upon it.

According to the plaintiffs in the suit, the consumer will be the big loser as a result of the decision.

Without relief from the dumping, American farm workers will be forced to go on welfare, thereby increasing the taxpayer burden, Rodriguez said. "Then, when competition has been eliminated, they will jack up their prices and a situation similar to a winter vegetable OPEC will appear," he said.

The Florida labeling law, which requires fresh fruit and vegetables and to be labeled as to the country of origin before entry to Florida, became effective Jan. 1.

County discusses Haitian problem

Haitians may continue to have temporary refuge in Palm Beach County, but the County Commission Tuesday (April 3) declined to provide temporary housing and food until federal processing and relocation to a Miami center.

The board did, however, endorse Florida Health and Rehabilitative Services Department as the "lead agency" to work with the federal Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) to help the Haitian refugees who have been arriving in the county by steadily increasing numbers.

In the motion by Commissioner Peggy Ewalt, seconded by Frank Foster, the board authorized a staff recommendation that the county purchase property and any community-based organization for use of the housing center west of Delray Beach.

Commissioners Norman Gregory and Bill Bailey objected to that portion of a staff recommendation that Mrs. Ewalt and Foster were supported by Chairman Dennis Koehler.

Commissioners unanimously approved three other staff recommendations on the Haitian problem.

Not pursuing, as a commission program, the establishment of a Haitian Refugee Processing Center in South Palm Beach County since INS has a center in Miami and, along with HRS, is planning a temporary facility at the A. G. Holley Hospital in Lantana for Haitian women and children.

Authorized the departments of Human Resources and Housing and Community Development to support HRS where required.

Directed the county staff to continue exploration and gain more details from the federal government concerning any benefits available to undocumented Haitians living in the county or arriving in the county in the future.

During discussion, Gregory said he was against encouraging "other persons from outside" the United States to come here as illegal aliens. Tom White, Human Resources director for the county, admitted such a practice could become "expensive" although it is humane.

The upshot was action to place the responsibility on the state and federal governments, but with cooperation from county commissioners and the staff.

The board also tabled, indefinitely, a previous workshop decision, by 3-2 vote, to pursue the possibility of the county's purchase of Lion Country Safari as a tourist attraction and possible relocation for animals now contained at the Dreher Park Zoo in West Palm Beach. The small zoo, in financial straits, recently received another $10,000 grant from the county to continue operations at least through April. The county's total contributions for this fiscal year have reached $60,000.

There was little discussion on the Lion Country Safari subject and, by their action, commissioners halted a proposed appraisal of the land and animals west of Royal Palm Beach. Mrs. Ewalt and Koehler had voted against the idea at a workshop early in March. Bailey Tuesday said he has had second thoughts on the proposal.

Commissioners also:

Approved a contingency fund allocation of no more than $61,224 to go along with Lake Worth's $110,000 appropriation and previously budgeted county funds to begin construction of a Senior Citizen Center in Lake Worth at the former China Blossom Restaurant. The former restaurant, purchased for $371,000 in 1977, will be renovated at a total cost of $708,767.

Tom Draney, District Manager, Reynolds Aluminum Recycling Co., noted "These days it makes more and more sense to save aluminum for recycling. So many products we purchase for our homes have aluminum containers or packaging. It's so simple to save them and recycle them for cash, instead of throwing them away."

In addition to aluminum beverage cans and other clean household aluminum products such as pie plates, foil, frozen food and dinner trays and dip, pudding, and meat containers, Reynolds purchases other aluminum items like siding, gutters, storm door and window frames, and lawn furniture tubing, which should be cut to lengths not exceeding three feet and bundled.

The new fuel adjustment plan will help you budget your electricity.

To help you budget your electricity costs, the Florida Public Service Commission has elected to set a 'levelized' fuel adjustment. It will be set for six months, then reviewed and adjusted, up or down, for subsequent six month periods. (Initially, so that equity will be attained, the charge will be reviewed monthly).

Starting April 1, your monthly fuel adjustment charge per kilowatt hour of usage will remain constant for six months. The widely fluctuating costs of fuel, primarily residual oil, will be projected for this period and leveled with the help of lower cost nuclear and natural gas.

The Commission also will develop an incentive clause to encourage electric utilities to cut fuel costs as much as possible.

Your fuel adjustment may be slightly higher initially. But in the long run, it will be the same as if calculated monthly...but will spare you those monthly decreases and increases that prevented budgeting for your costs.

Too, you can more accurately measure your conservation efforts on actual kilowatt hour usage. To be specific about saving, pick up a "How to Save" folder at any FPL office.

I'LL MAKE YOUR LIFE EASIER

LET'S GET ACQUAINTED.

I'm Tillie, Florida National's Alltime Teller. And my job is to make your banking as quick and convenient as possible any time, any day, even weekends and on holidays.

In a matter of seconds, I can help you make deposits, transfers, withdrawals and payments. I'll even tell you how much you have in your savings and checking accounts when you want me to.

you've requested. You can make withdrawals from your savings account or your checking account. I'll give you cash in $5, $10, $15, $20 amounts, up to $200 a day.

5. Deposit/payment slot: I'll accept deposits to both your checking and savings accounts. Just fill out the transaction envelope. I'll also accept loan payments. Just enclose your check and payment slip in the transaction envelope. Or I can transfer the payment from your checking account (with payment slip) or savings account (with payment slip).

6. Tillie Transaction Envelopes. For deposits or payments. There'll always be a supply on hand.

7. Your receipt slot. When we finish our business I'll send your receipt out this slot. Right below the receipt slot I'll send back your Alltime Teller card.

8. My pretty face. When we finish our business, I'll say goodbye until next time and lower my eyelids.

IT'S EASY TO PUT ME TO WORK.

1. Alltime Teller card slot. This is where you insert your Alltime Teller card so I know you're Tillie.
2. This is my TV screen where I tell you what to do.
3. Secret code/money keyboard. This is where you enter your secret code so I know it's really you. (The code is our little secret.) You also enter the exact amount of your transaction here.
4. Cash drum. I'll automatically open this drum with the cash

I'LL GIVE YOU 24 HOUR CONVENIENCE... AND MORE.

Balance Inquiry
It's a normal transaction. Just tell me you want your balance (savings or checking) and I'll print the amount on your receipt.

Money Transfers
I can transfer money from checking to savings or savings to checking.

County program will help Glades battered wives

By AILSA DEWING

It used to be called wife-beating and society tended to look politely away from the problem. It was good manners to mind your own business. Then the next door neighbors had a row. Ignore the scuffling, the cursing and shouting, the sounds of violence—even of the wailing and crying of the woman being hurt.

And if eventually someone did call the police, that was only a temporary measure. The police came. They talked to the husband and went away again. They really couldn't do much of anything about it either.

Then a few years ago social agencies and police began focusing on the problem. Social workers began looking for the real answers to the question neighbors had been asking all along, "Why doesn't she leave him?" Police had become aware of a concomitant problem: one out of every five officers killed in the line of duty died while attempting to break up a family fight.

Elsewhere in the nation and in Palm Beach County as a whole, solutions have been found for what has come to be called "the battered wife syndrome."

But in the Glades area, the problems still exist and the solutions are yet to come. The beaten wife can call for help and the police will come. They can arrest the husband for battery and put him in jail. And police no longer have to witness the assault taking place, and then what?

Left at home, probably with young children, the wife has no where else to go. She frequently is the one to seek her husband's release because he is the family breadwinner. And she knows that when he does come home she will probably be beaten again for having had him arrested. Consequently, many wife-beatings go unreported.

Last year Palm Beach County set up the Domestic Assault Program. Since then it has averaged 75 calls for help a month and can now provide shelter, temporary funding, legal help and avenues of escape to a new life for women fed up with being physically abused.

But the facilities are in West Palm Beach and so far have provided little in the way of aid and comfort to Glades area women.

As Velma Troy, who heads the county's Domestic Assault Program, explains: "When we do get a call from a woman in the Glades area there is the problem of transportation. She probably has no money and no means of getting here. She needs a safe place to hide until we can get to her."

Many Glades women placed in the West Palm Beach shelter soon return home, Ms. Troy says "where they can be with friends and family." The women find it difficult to adjust to the strangeness of the city and the loneliness of "being away from home."

So efforts are being made to bring the program to the Glades.

Last week a group of some 20 Glades area residents, many of them social workers, attended a workshop conducted by Ms. Troy and volunteered their efforts in establishing an assistance program to serve the western end of the county.

Their efforts are bent toward finding community resources for establishing a "hot line"—a telephone number to call for immediate help; means of transporting victims to a safe place; locating a shelter—a house where women and children can be housed in security for up to six weeks while long-range plans are developed; sources of emergency funding—most women flee their homes without money or clothing for themselves and their children; and legal assistance in obtaining a separation or divorce as well as supporting their claims to child custody and rights to claim personal belongings and household goods.

It is estimated that eight to ten cases of domestic assault are reported each week to Glades area police but "many more are not reported" in Mr. Troy's estimation, because of fear of reprisal or because the women are virtually prisoners in their homes—unable to escape and call for help.

A rapid survey undertaken immediately following last week's session, of sheriff's office reports alone on cases involving domestic assault, showed deputies had responded locally to "53 cases in October, 37 in November, 51 in December, 34 in January and 35 in February.

Closer inspection of records would show many more incidents, Mr. Troy points out that are included among the "assault and battery" complaints as well as other charges not specifically designated "domestic."

Reports of suspected assault are sometimes filed by hospitals also, according to Ms. Troy, when the victims seek medical help but insist they fell or were mugged.

In addition to fear there is an element of shame involved in some cases, Ms. Troy explains. "Women reach a point of believing they deserved the beating, that they really are inferior or are to blame for the problem."

When cases of domestic assault are reported by hospitals, agencies or neighbors, rather than the victim, the procedure is to call the home Mr. Troy relates.

DORIS CROUCH

At the age of 61 Doris Crouch is thinking about going on to college. In February Mrs. Crouch earned her high school equivalency diploma and this month she's learned she scored among the top 25 percent of the nation's high school seniors.

"And I didn't crack a book," she says in amazement.

Doris is familiar to Belle Glade residents as one of the ladies who works at the municipal library's circulation desk, but she lives in Pahokee.

For the past three years, as a library aide, she's helped others to expand their knowledge—checking out books for them, locating books they couldn't find on the shelves and answering questions on where to locate information.

Last fall she began asking herself why she didn't do something about finishing her own education.

"I quit school half way through the tenth grade to get married," says Mrs. Crouch, adding that she lived in Clewiston at the time.

For the next 43 years she lived in Lake Harbor where she raised two children, one of them a cerebral palsy victim. "I once took some guidance courses at the University of Miami to be able to help my son," she says, "And I took a typing course for myself once but everytime I thought I'd go back to school somebody in the family got ill or something."

After inquiring about the General Equivalency Diploma examinations, Mrs. Crouch enrolled in a six-week course in math to earn a half credit toward her GED.

In February she decided to try the examinations. On four nights she took five exams covering math, English and writing skills, social science, literature and reading, and science.

She was confident that she had passed them all but she was surprised to learn she had passed with flying colors.

That notification came in a letter from Michael R. Robbins, director of Adult & Community Education for the Palm Beach County schools.

FORMER BELLE GLADE policeman Dan Bythwood, now a human relations specialist with the West Area schools superintendent's office, is among the volunteers helping Velma Troy, head of the county's Domestic Assault Program, locate and draw on community resources for aiding Glades area women who are battered wives.

I repeat, I am not a mechanic.

"No matter how many times I try to tell my husband that, I always get hoodwinked into climbing under that stupid truck every time it needs a repair.

"Just hand me the tools and talk to me while I work," he says.

That's how it starts out. Then we progress to: "Hold that up there while I loosen this thingamajig." Finally, I end up a full-fledged mechanic's helper with all the swear words that go with it.

This past Saturday was my absolute last time to ever climb up under any machinery.

"We'll drop the drive shaft, put in the new throwout bearing, and have'er back together in no time," I was told. If I believed that I also would believe in the Easter Bunny and Santa. No way!

Well, things started out easy enough. I sat in a lawn chair and threw the necessary tools under the truck as he raved for them, making sure they didn't connect with anything other than metal.

FROM THE GRAPEVINE

By BRENDA BUNTING

"Hey, come under here and help me a minute," he hollers. I protested that I had white shorts on. "Oh, this won't take but just a minute, you won't get dirty."

When you pull out a drive shaft, it is full of oil, folks. I found that out the hard way. A stream of oil drizzled over both of us. "Hey, I quit!" I hollered.

"You can't leave now, I need you to hold that up there while I slip this bearing in place."

Do you have any idea how heavy a drive shaft is? How long could you hold up a fifteen pound weight? Well, I didn't last long enough. I managed to slip, and mess up the whole alignment and it took us three hours to get that blasted thing back in.

My daddy told me a good mechanic never forces anything; he just gets a bigger hammer. Before we were through, we were ready for a sledge hammer.

Toward the end of the job I discovered I was lying in a bed of fire ants and I went racing toward the house to remove the crawling and biting creatures.

I did not return until the pound of tools hitting the tool box assured me that the job was finished!

The next time that I needed repairing I am going to be painting white elephants on the kid's bedroom walls, fixing a hunchon for President whoever, mowing the grass with fingernail clippers, anything but scooted under a greasy truck playing mechanic's helper.

Outreach workshop

A workshop on rehabilitation of disabled agricultural workers will be conducted at 12:30 p.m. Wednesday, April 9, at the Glades Office Building under the auspices of the Community Services Council.

The speaker will be Mrs. Eva Brown Reese, project director of the Vocational Rehabilitation Outreach of Florida Health and Rehabilitative Services.

The outreach program serves disabled seasonal and migrant agricultural workers and began operation March 3, providing vocational work evaluation, adjustment services, skills training, job placement and follow-up.

The workshop will provide information to agency workers, school personnel, and others interested in the program.

For additional information, contact Palm Beach County Social Services at 996-2840.

"I call and if the woman answers I ask her if it's safe for her to talk. If she says, 'no,' I tell her to say it's a wrong number and hang up."

A postcard bearing the number to call for help is then mailed in the hope the woman will be the one to pick up the mail.

Since last week's session, progress has been made in one area. Permission has been given through Jean Cogar, director of Community Mental Health Services, to use the mental health Crisis Intervention telephone number, 996-1121, as a hot-line and temporary shelter will be provided at the Belle Glade Crisis unit whenever possible.

Meanwhile, a task force of volunteers has been set up from among those attending last week's workshop. Serving on the task force are Betty Lamb, Clair Wiggins, the Rev. Alvin L. Jones, Robert Florence, Ruth Howard, Ross Harrington and Daniel Bythwood. Each has accepted a specific area to investigate for resources.

A public meeting is also scheduled at 7:30 p.m. April 24 at Palm Beach Junior College at which time the film, "Battered Women," will be shown and Mary Kay Murray, director of the shelter for victims operated by the YWCA in West Palm Beach, will discuss planning and funding shelters.

Ironically, Domestic Assault Program workers point out, state funding comes from marriage license revenues: $5 paid toward each marriage license goes toward providing shelters for battered spouses.

MRS. WILLIAM WESLEY THOMPSON

W. W. Thompson wed to former Belle Glade girl

PLANT CITY—The First United Methodist Church was the scene of the March 22 wedding of Karen Lynn Musselwhite and William Wesley Thompson.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Musselwhite, 1607 Woodside, and former residents of Belle Glade. Mr. Thompson is the son of Douglas H. Thompson, 955 NW 4th St., Belle Glade, and the late Ruth B. Thompson.

Miss Kelly Musselwhite attended her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Kathy Musselwhite, Miss Sheryl Simons, Miss Deanna Snider and Miss Theresa Snider, both of Homestead.

Douglas Thompson served as best man for his son. Ushers were Douglas H. Thompson, Jr., Gainesville; Jorge Echave, Julio Sanchez, both of Belle Glade; Charles Thompson, Irmo, S.C.; and David Philpott, Atlanta.

Following a wedding trip to Sea Island, Ga., the couple will make their home in Gainesville where Mr. Thompson is a student at the University of Florida.

Mrs. Thompson is a graduate of Plant City High School and Palm Beach Junior College. She is employed as a dental hygienist.

Mr. Thompson graduated from Glades Day School in Belle Glade.

Rose show in WPB April 12, 13

Hundreds of roses in a range of colors and varieties will be displayed at the 10th Annual Rose Show April 12 and 13 sponsored by the Palm Beach Rose Society.

One of the largest rose shows in Florida, the exhibit will be held at the Cross County Mall located at the intersection of Okeechobee Blvd. and Military Trail in West Palm Beach. Show hours are 2 to 9 p.m. Saturday and 1 to 5:30 p.m. Sunday. Admission is free.

The show will also feature a display of rose arrangements and area rose growers are invited to submit entries.

Roses being entered for exhibition must be brought to the mall between 7 and 10 a.m. Saturday, April 12.

For additional information, call 582-3219, 844-7683 or 683-1777.

Easter SUNRISE SERVICES

BELLE GLADE—The Protestant community will greet Easter Sunday at a 6 a.m. service to be held at the Glades Day School stadium.

Five local pastors will participate in the service with the Rev. David Evans of Everglades Presbyterian Church delivering the sermon on the theme, "Easter Comes to Belle Glade."

The invocation and welcome will be offered by the Rev. Robert Atkins of First Baptist Church. The Rev. Mark O'Farrell of the Christian Missionary Alliance will give the scripture reading. Prayer will be led by the Rev. Joe Ed McGahey of Community United Methodist Church and the Rev. Charles B. Farrar of St. John's Episcopal Church will pronounce the benediction.

Special music will be sung by a ladies trio from First Baptist Church which includes Dollie Penuel, Barbara Markham, and Susie Forman. Helen Youngblood will be the pianist for the service.

Taking it From the Top

By REV. DAVID T. EVANS
Everglades Presbyterian Church

Sunday is Easter! This day which is celebrated as a time of renewal and new life is set as the highlight of the Christian year.

Easter comes at a time when our country and the world need renewal and new standards. Our nation is struggling with disappointment with leadership and inflation and despair over the hostages.

We ourselves are dismayed and frightened by the violence of kidnapping and terrorists. At every turn there is fear of war and personal safety and apprehension about health.

Into the depths of despair came one, Jesus of Nazareth, who said, "A new commandment I give you. That you love one another even as I have loved you." He came to tell people who were depressed, oppressed and both helpless and hopeless that there was and is hope in God's love.

While the prophets of doom tell the bell announcing one crisis after another we still have resources if we use them carefully and develop new ones. The talent of the minds of men and women have not been tapped to develop new methods of transportation and energy.

Now is the time for the Christians, individuals and collectively, to express love and willingly make sacrifices for each other. We have had a comparatively easy life since World War II. We have been tearing down our barns and building new ones. We need to re-evaluate our resources and use our physical and spiritual assets wisely.

Now at Easter is the time to take another look at Jesus. He came not only to Bethlehem, Nazareth and Jerusalem, but He comes to us. Jesus came as God's answer to a world of greed, selfishness and corruption. God was not content to leave us in our frustration but came to us in love.

The death of Christ was necessary to get the attention of all men including you and me. As today, the men of Jesus' time were looking out for themselves and oppressing others. God wanted to show that His love was the only answer.

On Palm Sunday, on such a day as last Sunday, Jesus rode into the city of Jerusalem and was crowned unofficial King of the Jews. He came to be the lord of the hearts of men. This threatened the status quo, the leadership, and the leaders arrested Him and crucified Him.

The Hosannas of the Palm became "crucify him, crucify him." The agony of the cross was joy to Christ because He was showing us the way to a new life. The open tomb of Easter is thrilling but it is important only if we remember the darkness of Golgotha.

God has given us new life in abundance in Christ who loved us so much that He willingly died for us. Only as we grasp the victory of good over evil; only as we see that selfishness must overcome selfishness; only when we make the sacrificing love of Christ our own can we have hope in the world.

Love came to the world at Easter. Love can come into your life if you will roll away the stone covering the entrance of your heart and let Christ live in your life.

Beef research expansion and promotion program needed

GAINESVILLE—Noting the need to expand beef research and promotion, the Florida Farm Bureau Federation (FFBF) has joined with the American Farm Bureau Federation in supporting efforts to strengthen the National Livestock and Meat Board and the U.S. Meat Export Federation programs.

Recently, cattle producers voted down a national beef research and information program by more than a two-to-one margin. Florida was one of only 14 states in which a majority of the cattlemen voted for the national "beef referendum."

"Since farmers and ranchers will have more control in this program, it is likely they will support it, not only in Florida but nationwide," said Walter J. Kautz, president of the 88,000-member FFBF.

Cattlemen in Florida realize that they need some support in the industry, Kautz said. "If you're going to do well in business, the consumer must be informed and markets developed," he said.

According to Ron Stephens, executive director of the Florida Beef Council, the problems addressed by the "beef referendum" are still there. "The producers just felt that particular proposal wasn't the way to deal with the problems," Stephens said. "We are still conscious of the problems, this just means the burden of solution is thrown back on the states," he added.

Kautz and Stephens agree the problems of increasing feed and transportation costs, inflation and interest must be addressed. "The National Livestock and Meat Board can evolve as a focal point for research on the red meats, and serve as a resource for accurate and timely collection and dissemination of information," Kautz said.

Card Of Thanks

We would like to express our thanks for the food and many flowers from our friends and neighbors during our time of sorrow. Words can't begin to express how much we appreciate everything you have done for us. To Rev. Mark O'Farrell, thank you for your kind words and to Misson Funeral home for their kindness. May God bless each and everyone.

Quail habitat is created

Good quail hunting is not a free gift of nature, according to Donald L. Vandergrift, district conservationist with the USDA, Soil Conservation Service who says quail are a product of the land, and the land must be managed in a particular way.

In pine woodland, controlled burning is "one of the most economical ways to improve quail habitat, the conservation official says."

Vandergrift describes controlled burning as the "planned burning of a tract of land for a particular purpose." However, he says, "certain conditions and precautions are necessary, and the most important one is that contact be made with the local Division of Forestry representative when planning a controlled fire."

Controlled burning during the late winter or early spring is generally considered to be the best time for improving woodland for quail. When a pine stand is controlled burned at this time of year under the proper weather conditions, a great variety of seed producing plants and native legumes are stimulated.

In most areas, a burning rotation should be set up on a three or four-year basis, Vandergrift says.

For help in planning controlled burning and other quail management practices, visit the local office of the Soil Conservation Service or call 965-3418.

Electricity is delivered at nearly the speed of light—186,000 miles a second—equivalent to traveling 7.5 times around the earth in one second. Therefore, says the Edison Electric Institute, the association of American investor-owned electric utility companies, electricity is used almost the same instant it is produced.

Area church news

Don't tell a soul

Thank God Easter is no secret!

The very word "Gospel" means good news.

We use that word to summarize the belief of millions that Jesus Christ is God's Son and our Savior—that He suffered, died and rose again for us.

The reason so many today share our Faith is that the followers of Jesus have always tried to tell every soul the good news.

That is why we want to tell you and share with you our Easter joy.

2. My ferns are always dying. Please give me some ideas about how to take care of them.

A. A. Ferns are among the most popular plants grown in Florida. They're used widely in the landscape and as house plants. Ferns grow well in warm shady areas, and are relatively free from pest or disease problems. Hundreds of different ferns are available to the Florida gardener.

Ferns make excellent additions to the home decor and to the landscape, and, with so many varieties of ferns to choose from, you're bound to find some that will work effectively into your landscape design or houseplant collection.

Ferns need a soil that is rich in organic matter. In fact, they grow quite well in one hundred percent peat moss, or a combination of three quarters peat moss, one quarter sand. But, whatever growing medium you choose, make sure that it drains rapidly. Fern roots are easily damaged by standing water.

Adequate drainage is especially important for container grown ferns. When potting ferns, choose containers that have several drainage holes in the bottom, and stay away from pots that can't provide drainage.

The best temperature for ferns is between seventy and eighty degrees fahrenheit. Most ferns will be injured by freezing temperatures. So if you live in an area that gets pretty cold in the winter, you will need to bring your ferns indoors during cold snaps.

Indoor temperatures are ideal for ferns, but the lack of humidity inside the home can be a real problem. Most ferns need a fairly high level of humidity to grow best. A dry atmosphere can cause leaf scorch on most ferns. Spraying or syringing your ferns often with a fine mist of water can partially correct the low humidity inside the home.

Ferns need only small amounts of fertilizer, and in this case, more definitely not better. Ferns will not tolerate excessive applications of fertilizer. If they have been fertilized too heavily, the plants often show leaf scorch. The convenient liquid house plant fertilizers, available at your garden supply center are fine for ferns, but only apply about half of the recommended amount.

Most ferns prefer partial shade, but wherever you grow them, avoid exposing them to direct sunlight. Ferns growing inside the home should be given as much light as possible, but you should still try to avoid areas which receive direct sun.

Ferns usually don't have problems with insects or diseases, but they can be easily injured by fungicides and insecticides. If you only have a few indoor ferns, you can usually control diseases by simply cutting out infected parts. To remove most insects, just take the plants outside and spray them with plain water. If necessary to control insects, you can spray with Diazinon at 1/4 the straight recommended for general use.

For indoor growing conditions, choose a fern that has some tolerance to low humidity. A Boston or a rabbit-foot fern would be a good choice. A fine thin-leaved fern, such as a maidenhair, doesn't do well in a dry atmosphere. Maidenhair ferns would make better specimen plants in the landscape.

Another good choice for the heavily shaded areas of your landscape is the leatherleaf fern. It's also useful in flower arrangements.

BIKE-A-THON IN MAY for the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation was discussed at a meeting Monday hosted by Willie Mae Adams, left, who is serving as chairman.

Also attending were committee members Mattie Powell, Mattie R. Walker, and Marjaret Poole.

Cystic Fibrosis Bike-a-thon

BELLE GLADE—Plans for a May 10 Bike-a-thon for the benefit of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, Florida Chapter, are underway.

The bike-a-thon course will cover 24 miles beginning at the Glades Plaza on SR715 with the turning point at the Loula V. York Memorial Library in Pahokee, according to Willie Mae Adams, chairman of the event.

Bike-a-thon sponsor sheets are available from Mrs. Adams and members of the committee. Contestants who submit $25 or more in pledges will receive a t-shirt as an award. A grand prize will be awarded the bicyclists bringing in the most pledges.

Refreshments will be served participants at Sardin Park, Mrs. Adams said.

Members of the bike-a-thon committee are Ida Mizell, Mary Foster, Marjaret Poole, Mattie R. Walker, Irene Clay, Ella Lang, Mattie Powell, Dot McCurdy, Vivian Byrd, Eva Oliver, Annie P. Campbell, and Martha Stendera.

Proceeds from the annual bike-a-thon are used in research and treatment of cystic fibrosis and related diseases.

"Congratulations," reads the letter from Robbins, "... for having attained scores in the top quarter of the nation's high school seniors."

Inviting Doris to contact the office for educational counseling, the letter suggests she also apply to the College Level Examination Program (CLEP) and learn how to earn college credits by examination.

"I'm going to write," says Doris, "but I should have done it 40 years ago."
